STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

OVER THE BACK FENCE

BY MARSHALL

When you start to lose faith in humanity just think about all the people in United States who have never played you a nasty trick.

* * *

Take a look at your dog. He is not as unusual as you may think. There are 23,000,000 dogs in United States. And if you start to think we are going to the dogs listen further. There are also 27,000,000 cats in the country. Dog food merchants sold $200,000,000 worth of food last year.

* * *

We have discovered how to tell when you are approaching 40.

It came about like this: We were showing off Deadman's Hill to a fellow from United Press. Standing atop the hill our brain flashed orders to our body. "Race down the hill, then wave up to the man on top and show him how small a person looks way down there."

"Then," continued our brain to our body, "race back up the hill and join your friend."

That was a wonderful idea, but our body spoke up and asked: "Who, me?"

* * *

East Jordan won a state Tennis title the other day. A whole bunch of people merely raised their eyebrows when it was announced. If it had been basketball the noise made by local backers would have been heard from here to there.

* * *

The huge straits ferry "Vacationland" has large colored photos hanging on the walls of the two observation rooms. It would be nice to see a beautiful scene there showing "fishing on the Jordan River."

* * *

Saw a Michigan map the other day showing how much our highways are traveled. M-32 from Elmira to East Jordan has an average 24 hour traffic toll of 200 cars, according to the map. We could find no other state highway where that few cars traveled within the same period.

* * *

No more picture shows on Sunday afternoon. That's an announcement from the Temple Theater. Not until further notice, anyway. Maybe its too nice weather now-a-days to go to the pictures in the afternoon.

* * *

Did you ever stop to think what would happen if all features or columns in your newspaper carried all the credit lines you see at the movies and on TV? . . . if such were the case here's how this column would look:

E. J. Cooperation Impresses Newberry Mayor

Editor's Note: Here's a report published in the Newberry News following Mayor Jackson's recent visit to East Jordan. At the time of Mayor Jackson's visit, East Jordan's Mayor Vern Whiteford was visiting Newberry.

(From Newberry News)

East Jordan is located on the lower arm of Lake Charlevoix at the mouth of the famous Jordan River.

As you travel from Charlevoix on Highway 66 you are impressed with the beauty of the valley and as you near the village you pass what was once the famous Loeb farm, known for its pure-bred stock. The beautiful buildings are now in a state of decay. You note also Ripley's "Believe It or Not" shortest auto ferry across the Jordan river—making a shorter route to Boyne City.

Lake Charlevoix and the Jordan river possess numerous resorts where one may enjoy fishing and outing.

Crossing the river upon entering the village one is impressed by the number of swans and it was learned that East Jordan is known as the home of the swans. They stay there the year around.

The Jacksons arrived at East Jordan about 10:30 a.m. Monday. Mrs. Jackson's hostess for the day was Mrs. Ted Malpass and Mayor Jackson was shown the municipality and industries which operate in East Jordan under the guidance of his host Ted Malpass.

The first plant visited was the East Jordan Foundry which makes special hydrants for East Detroit and Chicago, manhole covers and castings needed by all municipalities. The plant has expanded constantly until now it is one of the largest north of Detroit. It employs approximately 135 men and it has been in the Malpass family for three generations. Five brothers operate this huge foundry.

The Cooperative Dairy makes an impressive appearance along the banks of the Jordan and employs approximately 30 people in the plant besides having 17 trucks to transport the milk used for processing. The dairy produces butter, dried milk and dried buttermilk.

East Jordan's Business Men's Association has been instrumental in bringing the Mt. Clemens Metals Products company to their village. This plant stamps out plates which are used in the operation of windows in cars. Before leaving East Jordan we were informed that this company expects to enlarge their plant. They employ at the present time approximately 150 men and women.

The Mt. Clemens Metal Company needed wooden boxes in which to ship their products, so a small box factory was started and it appears that expansion of the box factory will be needed in the near future. Some of the cedar used for boxes was obtained from Blaney Park area.

The East Jordan Cooperative has grown enormously since its inception. It provides feed and farm machinery for the surrounding farm area.

A seasonal factory operating at East Jordan was the canning factory. At peak times it employs about 200 workers. It cans asparagus and cherries which are raised on its own property. The Mayor was fortunate in arriving as they finished canning asparagus and was the recipient of a case. John Porter heads this organization, formerly with the lumber industry and is well acquainted with a host of lumber men in and around Newberry, a territory which he covered in the early days of lumbering.

Mayor and Mrs. Jackson visited with the Sedgemans, formerly of Newberry, and they wished to be remembered to their many friends here.

In the evening Mayor and Mrs. Jackson were the guests of the municipal officers and the Business Men's Club, at a banquet held at the Jordan Inn. The Business Men's Club and the councilmen presented both the Mayor and Mrs. Jackson with gifts commemorating their visit.

Mayor Jackson said: "We were most impressed with the spirit of cooperation exhibited by all citizens of East Jordan and the interest they displayed in each other's work and enterprises, seemingly placing the goal of East Jordan above personal gain and profit. Their hospitality was graciously extended and we hope as graciously received."

Marketing For Area

A new Charlevoix county livestock marketing service, sponsored by the county Farm Bureau will start operations when the first truck load of livestock goes to St. Louis, Michigan, June 13th.

Livestock will be offered for sale there at the farmer-owned sale operated by Michigan Livestock Exchange.

Ear tags will be used on each animal at the farm and a receipt issued by trucker Lyle Smith, of East Jordan. He will make a weekly run to the St. Louis market each Monday.

According to Charlevoix County Farm Bureau officials, insurance for crippling or death of livestock in transit will be carried.

The new marketing service, it is said, is the result of a united effort to bring better opportunities for marketing livestock to Charlevoix county and is another Farm Bureau Service.

Another Red Claim . . .

It doesn't seem to matter what has been invented; sooner or later the Russians get around to claiming credit for it. Now the bearers of the Red Banner have added phototypesetting to a somewhat impressive and ever-increasing list.

A Soviet pamphlet reports that about 60 years ago one V. A. Gassyev invented the first filmsetting machine. He paid license fees for his patent for several years, but it seems nothing was heard from him between 1909 and 1950. In the latter year, a Soviet printing industry paper, Poligrafitcheskoye Proisvodstvo (how come we aren't on its exchange list?), got around to printing an article on the invention. Mr. Gassyev was discovered still teaching physics in a small town in the Caucasus region.

Gassyev's machine, which, incidentally, the above-named PP says is still in his possession, is about the size of an ordinary typewriter. The keyboard is electrically motivated and shift keys turn a disc with 120 letters and signs in 30 rows toward a photo objective to expose any character the operator selected.

The Soviets also are supposed to have conducted other experiments in film typesetting. Who knows? Who can prove it? Maybe the claim invalid; maybe it isn't. The Russians won't lift the Iron Curtain long enough to photograph an ampersand, much less the whole alphabet.

HUCKLE'S STUDIO OF PHOTOGRAPHY

Broadcasting and telecasting Tiger baseball games is not as simple a task as many fans believe. Van Patrick and Ol' Diz are at the ball park long before the game begins.

Starting line-ups must be obtained from home and visiting team managers. Cards have to be compiled on individual batting averages and defensive positions. Note must be made of visiting delegations for later acknowledgement on the air. Voice levels have to be checked before air time.

Morover, as Ol' Diz shuttles about, gathering data, I'm stopped by fans who want to say hello. Not that I mind. I love to chat with the fans, but it does cut into my time, so I try to arrive at the ball park with the players at 10:30 a.m.

Several mornings a week Ol' Diz pitches batting practice to the Tigers, thus sparing a regular pitcher for afternoon duty. I still have a locker in the clubhouse and my old uniform, number 11.

WORK APART

As for the broadcasts, Van and I have separate microphones. When I do the "color" between innings, I take my cue from engineer Howard Stitzel, who's been handling Tigercasts eight years, when we're only on radio, or from producer Ralph Rust when we're also doing television.

Signaling me to speak, they simply point a finger in my direction, meaning, "'You're on."

I try not to interrupt Van's play-by-play unless I have some extremely important sidelight to add. Then I signal him by a light touch.

When we have something to say to each other, Van or I can press cut-off buttons on our mikes that takes us off the air for a few seconds. It happens so fast that fans rarely are aware that we're off.

Telecasting is considerably more complex than broadcasting The picture and Van's narration have to be in harmony. We have a TV monitor in our booth, which hangs down from the second deck between home and first to help us. But producer Rust is kept hopping to select which of three pictures on his big monitor best fits in with Van's description.

DIFFERENT VIEWS

Each of the three camers—behind home plate, to the right of our booth and to the left of the visiting announcer's booth, between home and third — is trained on a different action. One may show the pitcher, another may be on the batter and the third may take in both.

Crowd noise is picked up by a mike hanging from our booth.

Van, who possesses an excellent vocabulary, stumps me once ina while. But I look up the word in my pocket dictionary and remember it. However, I'm still a man of simple words and intend to continue that way as long as I'm broadcasting the Hickory and Horsehide game.

"Maybe we 'ain't seen nothin' yet.' Just suppose we had power steering in the back seat!"

LIBRARY NOTES

Summer schedule: Open hours, Afternoons 1:00 to 5:00. Mornings, 10:00 to 12:00 on Tuesday and Friday only. Evenings 7:00 to 8:30 on Wedfesday and Saturday, only. Closed on holidays and Sundays.

New books: Cry Coyote, by Frazee is said to be almost a classic in its class. It is an excellent Western Story, telling of a father so embittered by his grief that he takes cruel revenge on his neighbors, but is finally jolted into a realization of the wrongs he has committed, when his son's life is threatened.

The Who-Done-It fans will like Bones in the Barrow by Josephine Bell.

The Bright Sword, by Eleanor Perenyi, is a fine historical novel of the days of our own Civil War. The scene is the South and some of the almost legendary figures of the day are more vividly portrayed than by any other writer.

For our reference section we have a Dictionary of Last Words which should prove both interesting and helpful.

Mandl's Television Servicing is a comprehensive manual for those dealing with television service.

Our young folks will enjoy Great White Eagle, by Enid Johnson. That was the name given by the Indians of the Oregon Territory to Dr. John McLaughlin, and this is the story of his life.

Crystal Mountain, by Rugh is a story of English and American children in the Arab country of Lebanon. The author understands children and writes well, too, of this land of her own childhood.

Mr. Gerner has brought in four more pocketbooks.

Story hour will continue on Saturday afternoons.

Consumer's Research is a new magazine on our shelves, recently.

When you wish to return books at hours when the Library is closed, just lift the little hinged lid on the south door and drop the books thru the opening.

Orchard Notes . . .

By CLAUDE FAIRMAN

The many fruit growers that I have met nearly all say the same thing — they say that they like to see the trees grow and like to work among the trees. And I find it quite fascinating deciding on what kinds and varieties of fruits to plant, what to plant for polonizers and where.

While the bloom is pretty, the matured crop is more fascinating to behold as it is indeed a work of art. The choice of land and location was good the nursery stock and the planting, the trees have matured and the proper spray materials were used at the right time to combat the many pests and fungus diseases.

The grower is very contented because he knows there is a ready market for his high flavored fruit.

Yes, the fruit grower can feel pretty good today. He has at hand thinning chemicals that will make larger and better colored fruit such as graders, lifts, loaders and everything for convenience.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Sad Note From The Bugle

All of us on the Clarion were alarmed to learn that our principal rival in the newspaper field —the Balesville Bugle—might have to shut down.

Crops were bad in Balesville last year and one of their factories moved out of town. Just temporary hard times, of course —but the Bugle needs help now if it's to survive.

So, this paper is going to scrape up a little money to help tide them over, and we hope other local concerns will do the same. We've seldom agreed with them editorially over the years—but we want their competition to keep us on our toes.

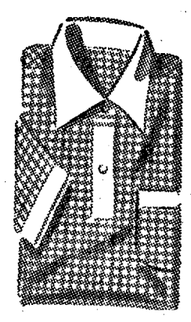

From where I sit, this country needs papers with different points of view—just as it needs people with different ideas and tastes. You may prefer iced tea as a hot-weather cooler . . . I generally choose a cold glass of beer. But if either of us couldn't express his opinion, and act on it, that would be "bad news" for the whole community.
